Additional Second Semester Offerings

The following classes have been added to the list of offerings for the second semester 1967-1968:

1005 Hebrew Reading

1444 Reading the New Testament in Greek

These offerings, listed as courses in the current catalogue as 1002 and 1443 respectively, also will be available as practicums, each meeting one hour per week. Students interested in practicum 1005 should see Mr. Armstrong or Mr. Clark; those interested in practicum 1444 should see Mr. Hay.

1751 Selections from the Apostolic Fathers [Mr. Story]

Readings from the Greek text of the Apostolic Fathers. Selections of varying difficulty will be chosen (e.g., the Didache, First Clement, the Ignatian letters, and the Martyrdom of Polycarp). Attention will be given to grammar and syntax, and to theological themes as they appear in the readings and their relationship to the New Testament. Open to Th.D. and Th.M. candidates and to qualified B.D. candidates. Approval of instructor required. Credit: one course. Time: hours to be arranged.

2631 Modern Opponents of Christianity [Mr. Nichols]

Currently carried in catalogue, p. 70. Time: Wednesday-Thursday-Friday, 10:40 a.m.

2573 Ecumenical Seminar [Mr. Shaull, coordinator]

Last carried in 1965-1966 catalogue, p. 78. Topic: The Politics of Power in an Urban Setting. Conducted for students from seminaries in the New York area. Meets in New York on the following Monday evenings: February 12, 26; March 11, 25; April 8, 22; May 6. Other Monday evening sessions held in Princeton. Graded Pass/Fail. Limit of 10 students from each participating seminary. Those interested must secure approval in advance of registration from Mr. Shaull.

During the second semester course 2281, Religion and Society, will be conducted under the following new description:

Analysis of the interaction of religion and public affairs. The relations between religion and other social institutions, including the family, politics, the economy, and education. Problems related to deviant behavior, community disorganization, and race relations. The function of the church in social action. Course is basic to the field. Lectures and preceptorials.

Handbook Handout

Students who did not receive the 1967-68 Student Handbook may pick it up in James Andrews' office.

Wineskin Mailing

Under a new policy, Wineskins and Viewpoints will be mailed only to off-campus students. On-campus students may pick them up in dormitory boxes provided for the purpose. These publications will no longer be mailed to the homes of faculty and administration. They may be picked up in the mailboxes of the Administration Building. Additional copies will be available in the lobby of the Administrative Building.

Christians to Confer in Washington on Vietnam

The second annual conference of Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, to include discussion and strategy, will be held Mon. and Tues., Feb. 5 and 6, in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Senator Eugene McCarthy, and Dr. Robert M. Brown will lead discussions and Congressional visits, along with the four national co-chairmen: Father Daniel Berrigan, Rev. William S. Coffin, Dr. Harvey Cox, and Rev. Dana Greeley.

The conference focuses on 1968 politics and the war in Vietnam, according to Princeton Seminary co-ordinator Stewart Ellis.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam is headed by John Bennett, President of Union Theological Seminary, Rabbi Heschel of Jewish Theological Seminary, Father J. McKenzie of the University of Chicago Divinity School, and Philip Scharper, Vice-President of Sheed & Ward, Inc.

Specific plans include state by state strategy sessions, visits to Representatives and Senators, plenary sessions on the draft, film previews, ecumenical worship, and a procession of agony.

Interested students should contact Robert Dayton, 105 Brown Hall, or Stewart Ellis, phone, 452-9051. Mercer County residents may contact Barrie Peterson, phone 452-8380.

Conference registration is $7. Chartered bus service will be available for about $6 and train service for about $8. Transportation reservations must be made by Jan. 27. Housing will be provided for those who need it.

Warfield Lecturer Announced

Roger Mehl, Professor of Theology at the University of Strasbourg, France, will deliver six lectures at Princeton Seminary Feb. 5-8, speaking each evening at 7:45 p.m. and also at 1:45 p.m., on Tues. and Wed.

Mehl is the Annie Kinkead Warfield Lecturer for this academic year. The Warfield Lectures, established by a bequest of the late Benjamin B. Warfield of the Seminary faculty, are in the field of Reformed Theology.

The topics of the individual lectures will be listed in the next issue of Wineskin.

Registration Procedures

All students registered for the second semester should report to the Language Lab in the basement of Stuart Hall on either Jan. 29, 30, or 31 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Payment of second semester fees will be due.

St. Joseph's Defeats Varsity

by Tom Crenshaw

Princeton Theological Seminary's varsity basketball team dropped its opening game of the season going down to a 73-62 defeat at the hands of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Seminary of Yonkers, N.Y.

The winners, who have now won 13 out of 17, were hard pressed, however, by the Seminary who held the lead a few minutes into the second half. Playing with only five men hurt the losers, who were under the running attack of St. Joseph's Club which was able to substitute at will.

Bob Timberlake was the leading scorer for the losers with 25 points while Paul Hammer had 13.

The Varsity will play host to St. Joseph's in a return game on Jan. 16.

The intramural league got off to its start with the Jr. Middlers and the Sr. Grads scoring wins.

Frank Drake led the Jr. Middlers to a 39-24 victory over Hodge. Drake scored 17, Don Baird, Ken Smith, and Ted Ryan each had 6 points apiece.

In a game decided in the final minute of play, the Sr. Grads defeated the Choir College 30-26. Rick Brank sparked the winners with 12 points while George Smith, who played an excellent floor game, contributed 12.

Your Chance to Dance

Kick up your heels at the annual dinner-dance sponsored by the Wives' Fellowship.

The smorgasbord dinner and evening of entertainment and dancing will take place Fri., Feb. 16, at the Far Hills Inn, on Route 202-206, north of Somerville.

Dinner will be enjoyed 6:45-8 p.m. Cold dishes include ham, beef, and turkey; salads include potato, cole slaw, and tuna. Shrimp à la Newburgh, Beef à la Mode, and Fried Chicken are the hot plates.

Following dinner S.T. Kimbrough will emcee entertainment which features Bob Knowles and his guitar, and Ian Mackay on the bagpipes. Pat Hardy and Hugh Smith will engage in humorous dialogue as well as Steve Baxter and his wife Susan.

The Seminary's own Spencer Gulick and The Apocalypse will provide music for dancing until 1 a.m.

Tickets are $8 a couple, and must be obtained by Feb. 11. They may be obtained from Janet Churn at Dr. Macleod's office, Gail Deason, B-E-3 North Hall, or Susan Hammer, 202 Dana St., A-3. If transportation is a problem, call Susan Hammer, 452-9329.

Nursery News

Seminary students and faculty members with small children may take advantage of the Presbyterian Cooperative Nursery School, sponsored by the three Presbyterian churches in Princeton.

Five professional teachers are employed and the school is certified by the New Jersey State Board of Education.

Two-year-olds and three-year-olds meet Tues. and Fri. 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. The fee is $68 a year. Four-year-olds meet Tues., Thurs. and Fri. 9:30-11:30 a.m. at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The fee is $98.

Interested persons are urged to make inquiries immediately, by calling Mrs. Victor Wichert, Registrar, at 466-1549.

Reformed Sociologist to Compare Ethics

Roger Mehl, Reformed minister, author, and professor at the University of Strasbourg in France, will discuss "Catholic Ethics and Protestant Ethics" in the Warfield lecture series Feb. 5-8.

Mehl is Dean of the Faculty of Protestant Theology and Professor of Ethics and Sociology of Religion at Strasbourg. He joined the faculty in 1945, first as a lecturer in religious philosophy, then as lecturer and professor in ethics and religious sociology. Last year he was named Dean.

Dr. Mehl has done extensive work in the ecumenical movement. He currently serves on the executive committee of the Department of Faith and Order of the World Council of Churches. Since 1956 he has been president of the Commission of Ecumenical Studies of the Council of the Protestant Federation of France.

The six lectures, to be given in Miller Chapel, are:

Mon., Feb. 5, 7:45 p.m., "The Situation of Ethics in Reformed and Catholic Theology"

Tues., Feb. 6, 1:45 p.m., "Traditional Morals in Catholicism," 7:45 p.m. "Persistent Divergencies"

Wed., Feb. 7, 1:45 p.m., "The Problem of Natural Law and Natural Morals," 7:45 p.m., "Soul and Body: the Sexual Life"

Thurs., Feb. 8, 7:45 p.m. "The Convergencies."

Of his publications, the following have appeared in English: The Condition of the Christian Philosopher, Pictures of Men, and Society and Love. Thirteen other volumes have appeared in French in other languages, dealing with ethics, Protestant-Catholic relations, sociology of religion, and theology.

Varsity Defeats St. Joseph's

by Tom Crenshaw

In their second game of the season the Seminary Varsity avenged an earlier loss at the hands of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Seminary by winning a hard fought 61-53 victory.

Bob Timberlake led the winners with 15 while Don McNeill and Lee MacCallum both chipped in with 10.

The Varsity next takes on Union Seminary of New York Feb. 1 at 8 p.m.

Bressler Speaks of Consequences

Dr. Marvin Bressler, Professor of Sociology at Princeton University, will address Koinonia Tues., Feb. 13, at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center.

Bressler, who has strong interests in both the sociology of religion and the sociology of knowledge, will discuss "The Ideological Consequences of Sociology." Dr. Charles West will respond.

Dr. Bressler graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and taught at New York University before coming to Princeton. He is the author of Education for an Uncertain World, part of the Prentice-Hall Modernization of Traditional Societies Series.

The meeting is open to the entire Seminary community.

New Rooms Available

Three new seminar rooms have been added to the Seminary's available space with the opening of the Carriage House on Mercer Street. The rooms, with a capacity of 20, 18 and 10 persons, will be used for classes and scheduled group meetings.

These new rooms are subject to the same regulations currently in effect for all Seminary facilities. Seminary groups such as student organizations and clubs, and class groups desiring to meet after their regular hours, must reserve the room on the master calendar in the office of the Assistant to the President.

Non-seminary groups must be cleared with the Director of Housing and Employment, Mr. Clarence Reed, before they may be scheduled, in order to make sure that insurance requirements and fire regulations are met.

Alexander Keeps Record Unblemished

by Tom Crenshaw

Alexander, the Senior Grads and the Junior Grads posted victories in the intramural games of Jan. 31.

Alexander kept their undefeated record intact with a 47-31 win over Hodge. Newcomer Bill Owens controlled the boards for the winners and contributed ten points in the scoring column as well. Bob Morrison and Gayland Yoder also tallied ten points apiece. Ted Ryan of the losers led all scorers with eleven.

The Junior Middlers came away with an easy victory over the Choir College. Jim Long led all scorers with twelve points while Sturgis Poorman contributed ten.

In the most exciting encounter of the night the Senior Grads squeaked by Brown 37-35 in triple overtime. With two seconds to go in regulation playing time Greg Meister stepped to the foul line and calmly dropped in two foul shots to tie the game and send it into overtime. With two seconds to go in the third overtime Eric Fagans took an inbounds pass and threw up a desperation forty footer that swished the cords for the winning score. Rick Brand led the winners with 18 while Greg Meister paced Brown with 16.

Vietnam Forum Wed.

A forum discussion of "The Problems, Issues, and Alternatives to the Far East Situation," sponsored by the Princeton Jaycees, will be held Wed., Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Ralph C. Chandler, Secretary of International Affairs for the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. will moderate the forum. The panel includes Do Lenh Tuan, Chancellor to the Permanent Observer of the Republic of Vietnam to the United Nations; H. Freeman Matthews of the State Department; Dr. Charles Tucker, Professor of Politics at Princeton University; and John E. Schrecker, Instructor of Modern Chinese History at Princeton University.

Andres Segovia

will play his tantalizing Spanish guitar Mon., March 11 at McCarter Theatre. Tickets are $4.95, $4.50, and $3.50. Order early.

Beker and Gartner to be Officially Installed on Faculty

Princeton Theological Seminary will install Dr. J. Christiaan Beker and Dr. Bertil E. Gartner as senior members of the faculty of Biblical studies on Wed., Feb. 21, at 7:45 p.m. in Miller Chapel.

The convocation will mark the formal beginning of Dr. Beker's appointment as Professor of Biblical Theology, and of Dr. Gartner's appointment as Professor of New Testament.

Both men will deliver addresses. Dr. Beker will speak on "Biblical Theology Today" and Dr. Gartner will discuss "The Lordship of Christ in Colossians 1:15-20."

Born in Gorssel, Holland, Beker received his Bachelor of Divinity from the University of Utrecht in 1948. Following completion of Master of Systematic Theology studies, he received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1955. Dr. Beker came to Princeton Seminary in 1964 after serving four years at Union Theological Seminary in New York, and four years at Pacific School of Religion in Calif. His publications include contributions to the Union Seminary Quarterly and his book The Church Faces the World—Late New Testament Books.

Dr. Gartner studied Greek, Hebrew, and Philosophy at the University of Gothenburg in his native Sweden, where he received his Doctor of Theology degree. In addition to teaching positions at the University of Uppsala and the Free Theological Faculty of Oslo, Norway, Gartner held pastorates in Sweden, including the chaplaincy of the University of Uppsala. Before coming to Princeton, Dr. Gartner headed the Old Testament Department at Uppsala from 1964-65. His publications have appeared in American, Swedish and international journals. Gartner recently authored a Commentary on the Gospel of Mark as a part of a Swedish Biblical commentary. Gartner is also active in consultations on church union as a representative of the Lutheran tradition.

D. T. Niles to Speak at Chapel Service

Dr. Daniel Thambyrajah Niles, widely known evangelist, preacher, and General Secretary of the East Asia Christian Conference, will speak at an extended chapel service Wed., Feb. 21 at 10 a.m.

A convincing exponent of the ecumenical movement's goal of a deeper and broader Christian unity, D. T. Niles has held several key ecumenical posts. He has served as Evangelism Secretary of the World YMCA staff in Geneva, and as Secretary of the Ceylon Christian Council. He is presently Secretary of the Department of Evangelism of the World Council of Churches.

Niles was born in Jaffna, North Ceylon, where he is Principal of Jaffna Central College, and minister of St. Peter's Church, both Methodist.

Niles works extensively with the student world. He is Chairman of the World Student Christian Federation, and until 1953 served as Chairman of the World Council's Youth Department.

In a lecture "What is the Church For?" delivered in Princeton in 1965, Niles compared Ceylon's church organization with the American system:

"The minister is the servant of the people. The converse is not true. The people are not the masters of the minister. In your system, where it's the congregation that invites the minister and pays him, you make it possible for the congregation to assume that they are the masters of the minister. In my church every minister gets the same pay, whether he's the minister of a congregation of 3000 or 300. So you cut out this business of ministers who are looking for careers, where you start somewhere in one little town and ultimately hope that you end up in New York or some place else. Your whole American system in this needs radical change because it is theologically invalid."

Niles received a B.D. at the United Theological College in Bangalore, India, and a Ph.D. in philosophy from the University of London.

Report on Washington

by George Taylor

Forty students and three faculty members attended the Washington, D.C. conference of Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, Feb. 5-6, joining over 5,000 others in discussion, strategy, and congressional interviews.

The Student Council unanimously endorsed the conference, which was held at the New York Ave. Presbyterian Church, and appropriated $175 to help pay registration fees.

Monday afternoon most of the Princeton delegation talked with New Jersey Senators Case and Williams. Others visited their home state senators and a few saw their local congressmen. We discussed such issues as the morality of the war, the U.S. role in the underdeveloped world, the possibility of negotiations with the North Vietnamese, and priorities in financial spending.

The consensus from the Tuesday plenary session "The Religious Community and Politics '68" seemed to be that responsible Christians must stand by those who feel they cannot participate in the war, and support political candidates who seek peace and constructive alternatives to the present administration policy.

Dr. Martin Luther King called for an immediate stop to the bombing of North Vietnam and a negotiated settlement, "so we can turn to the proper priorities of money and manpower: the tragedy of poverty and racial discrimination at home."

Rev. William Sloan Coffin Jr., Chaplain of Yale University and co-chairman of the conference, called the present period in American history a "special time" similar to the special times to which the Hebrew prophets spoke, characterized by conflict; blindness in recognizing inherent possibilities in the times, and by the smallness of the remnant who do apprehend the special time. He charged the national leadership with spiritual bankruptcy, and urged concerned Christians to call the nation to repentance for the "grievous moral and political error of Vietnam" and to press on to new forms of social justice and moral priorities in this country and throughout the world.

Other activities included a review of the book In the Name of America, a study commissioned and published by Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, by John Bennett, President of Union Seminary, N.Y.C.; films; and a silent vigil at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

Those of us who attended the conference were impressed with the sense of urgency which the conference leadership conveyed, and were frustrated at the seeming impotence of our Senators and Congressmen to do anything about securing peace in Vietnam. We returned home tired, but somehow hopeful after the two-day conference.

Vocations Confab Organizing

Plans for the 9th annual conference on Church Vocations, March 1-3, are consolidating.

The conference will feature major addresses by D. T. Niles, General Secretary of the East Asia Christian Conference; Dr. Robert P. Johnson, General Presbyter of the Presbytery of New York City; and Dr. James I. McCord.

"Verily, Verily, Verily,/MERRILY," a two-act musical drama, will be presented by members of the Seminary community, who are now rehearsing for the play. The book and lyrics were written by Jerry Fargo and Princeton's own Bob Jacks, Instructor in Speech. Mr. Jacks is also responsible for composing the music.

The purpose of the March conference is to present the challenges of church vocations to college juniors and seniors.

Don Broadwell, student assistant of the 1968 Conference reports excellent response to the letters requesting nominations. From the several thousand nominations approximately 200 men and 50 women will be selected on a first-come-first-served basis.

Princeton students are needed to extend their hospitality by accepting the delegates as week-end roommates. Housing chairmen in the various living units will begin to canvass students to determine the number of accommodations available, according to Broadwell.

A Time for Creativity

What would you do with 200 pounds of modeling clay? What would you do with paint, pastels, crayon, charcoal or pencil? Stone, wood or soap?

You can find out what you would do with these mediums at the Princeton Seminary Art Festival, Fri., March 8.

Stuart Hall will be converted into an art studio for this major "art-in." Students, wives, and faculty are invited to spend the evening expressing themselves creatively with the art supplies which will be provided.

Simultaneous with the art show will be musical expression and the reading of original poetry.

Art works done by students prior to the Festival will be displayed in Stuart Hall. No professional displays will be allowed, only original works.

According to Gary Burdge, one of the pioneers of the project, the idea for the festival developed from a dinner conversation between several who discovered they had a common interest in art.

Burdge, who created the drawing on the opposite page, explained the idea behind the Festival. "There is very little possibility for expression in the Seminary community. We need to have creative expression to help us in our theological struggle."

Burdge is working closely with the Creative Arts Department of Princeton University for ideas to use in the project. "The University people were very excited about what would come out of this 'grass roots movement' of creativity at the Seminary."

Working on the plans for the Festival are Mike Brandon, Bill Carr, Gary Burdge, Ross Warfield, Andy Armstrong, and Rich Dennis.

The committee expressed hope that artistic expression could come to have a permanent place at the Seminary.

Varsity Wins Number 2

by Tom Crenshaw

The Seminary varsity won their second game in a row by trouncing General Seminary of New York 102-62. Bob Timberlake led the varsity with 23 while Gayland Yoder added 22.

In the intramural games this week Alexander, Junior Middlers and Brown came away with wins. Alexander handily defeated the Choir College 47-27. Yoder paced the Alexander five with 26 points.

The Junior Middlers playing aggressive basketball and displaying an effective zone defense took the measure of the Senior Grads, 46-38. The game was close up until the last few minutes when Sturgis Poorman put the game on ice with a couple of driving layups. Jim Long paced the winners with 17 points while Poorman added 12. Art Ware led the losers with 10.

In the final game of the night's schedule, Brown defeated Hodge 37-23. Greg Meister led the winners with 16 while Ted Ryan paced the losers with 14.

Two New Professors to Join Seminary Faculty

Dr. Bernard W. Anderson and Dr. Karlfried Froehlich will join the Princeton Theological Seminary faculty in Sept., 1968.

Anderson, formerly Dean of the Drew University School of Theology, will become Professor of Old Testament Theology. Froehlich, who is currently engaged in research in Paris, will become Associate Professor of the History and Theology of the Medieval Church.

Anderson, who is ordained as a Methodist minister, received his B.A. from the College of the Pacific, his B.D. and M.A. from Pacific School of Religion, and his Ph.D. from Yale University.

Dr. Anderson has taught at Colgate University, Biblical Literature at the University of North Carolina, and Old Testament Interpretation at Colgate Rochester Divinity School. In 1958 he became Dean of Drew and Professor of Biblical Literature.

In 1963 Anderson spent the academic year as Annual Professor at the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem. Anderson has written five books in the field of Biblical theology, edited two additional volumes and translated a third.

Karlfried Froehlich, a member of the Lutheran Church in America, was a summa cum laude graduate of the University of Basel in 1963. He was secretary and assistant to Professor Oscar Cullman for two years, aiding him in the publication of several works.

Froehlich became Assistant Professor of New Testament and Church History at Drew in the fall of 1960. After a two-year appointment as Guest Professor of Patristics at the University of Zurich, Dr. Froehlich returned to Drew. In 1966 he was promoted to the post of Associate Professor. His research has been in the fields of New Testament and pre-Reformation Church History.

Financial Aid Applications Due

Currently enrolled students who expect to receive financial assistance next year must make application during the current semester. All arrangements must be completed before May.

Copies of the "Student Financial Inventory" will be available in the Office of the Assistant to the President Mon., Feb. 26.

It will not be possible for continuing students to make application in the fall until all entering students have been interviewed, a process ending in mid-November.

Even though information may be incomplete, applications should be initiated. Rough estimates may be used now, and accurate figures substituted when they become available.

Those who wish to discuss special problems should make appointments only after completing the inventory.

Niles Meets with Students

D. T. Niles, Secretary of the East Asia Christian Conference, will deliver the 1968 Missions Lectures Wed., Thurs., and Fri., at 7:30 p.m. in Miller Chapel. The Friday lecture will serve as the first lecture of the Vocations Conference.

The Students' Lectureship on Missions was established by undergraduates of the Seminary in 1893 to inform the whole Seminary community of the world mission of the Church.

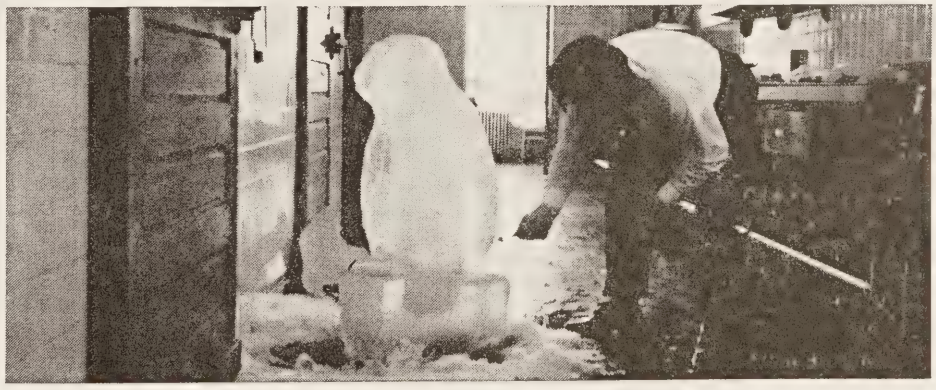
D. T. Niles will also lead two retreats on the Seminary campus for a limited number of students. The first will take place March 8 and 9, focusing on evangelism. The second will be held March 15 and 16, focusing on prayer. Interested students should contact John Bartholomew, A-4, 205 Dana St.; Sandy Yule, K-I, 100 Stockton St.; or K. C. Abraham, 301 Alexander Hall.

Iceberg Becomes Ice Bird for Mardi Gras



Anthony Aspras, Food Service Manager, takes a chip off the old block to make a crow as table decoration for the Mardi Gras banquet Feb. 22.

"Tony" begins with a 300-pound block of ice. He draws a pattern on cardboard and traces around it on the ice. Using a 6-prong fork, he chips away the ice, at an angle to keep the block from cracking. "It cracks easily; I have to be careful, especially in the main body."

Tony, who has made a swan, steamboat, cross, vase for roses, and MC (Merry Christmas), for Seminary banquets, said "It's not hard. Anybody can do it. It just takes imagination and a little experience."

The sculpture takes about an hour to finish. "Once the form takes shape, I have to work more slowly." When it starts to melt too much, Tony puts it back into the freezer to harden. His only complaint about the job is that "my hands get cold."

Mr. Aspras who has worked for Slater Foods Service six years now commented that this year's students are the friendliest group he has seen.

Ecumenics Chair Established

The professorship of ecumenics at Princeton Theological Seminary, the first such teaching post established in an American seminary, will become the Henry Winters Luce Chair of Ecumenics.

A gift of $500,000 from the Henry Luce Foundation, Inc., has made possible the professorship in the field of Christian unity. It is established in memory of Henry Winters Luce, a member of Princeton Seminary's Class of 1896. Luce served as a missionary and educator in the United States and China, and taught at Princeton Seminary as a visiting lecturer after his return from China.

Henry Winters Luce was the father of the late Henry B. Luce, founder and editor-in-chief of Time, Life and Fortune. A grandson of Henry Winters Luce, Henry Luce, III is a trustee of Princeton Theological Seminary and is Vice President of Time, Inc.

After graduating from Princeton Seminary in 1896, Henry Winters Luce served a year as secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement. He later returned to Princeton Seminary as a Visiting Lecturer. In 1897 Luce went to China, and for 17 years was a professor at Shantung Christian University. In 1919 he was named Vice President of Peking University, and served there until 1927 when he became Vice President Emeritus.

Returning to the United States, Luce spent a year in additional graduate study, and then taught 13 years as professor of missions at Hartford Theological Seminary. He died December 7, 1941.

The chair named in memory of Henry Winters Luce was originally a professorship of missions, the field in which he served and in which he later taught. At its establishment, it was the first professorship of missions in theological education. It became the first ecumenics professorship when it was occupied by Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Seminary from 1936 to 1959.

Merrily the Show Rolls on

The perils of preachers will be portrayed Sat., March 2, in the musical "Verily, Verily, Verily/MERRILY!" Set for 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium, the musical will be presented in conjunction with the weekend Conference on Church Vocations.

Clayton Ames, a middler, portrays the Rev. Adam Newman, a recent seminary graduate, filled with youthful, high idealism. He responds to the call of an angel of God who is "searching for one who'll dare to be honest and follow in the light." Adam is instructed to maintain his integrity throughout his ministry.

Adam Newman finds his integrity difficult to maintain during his ministry at Golgotha Memorial Church. He continually compromises his standards for the sake of the status quo.

Mrs. Newman is played by Sara Bradley, Wesley Michaelson plays the angel and Jacqueline Yetter is Marylee.

The chorus of women includes Cheryl Brown, Cheryl Hodges, Linda Hofer, Constance Leean, Shirley Rakacs, and Barbara Simpson. Comprising the male chorus are Paul Aiello, Cliff Baker, Robert Buttzinger, Robert Coppock, William Dixon, and Charles Gilmore. Joan LeRoy is pianist.

The play and lyrics were written by Jerry Fargo and Bob Jacks as their thesis for the degree of Master of Sacred Theology at Christian Theological Seminary.

The "Gentlemen of the Board" rehearse

Jacks called the musical "an expression of the state of affairs of the church today," but said that it is also an "attempt to communicate, in love, God's message to man." Jacks commented that Adam Newman's plight will hopefully "strike a note of response within the hearts of all the audience, whose struggle for integrity in the face of a society motivated strongly by its vested interests is equally real and as painful."

Directing the production is Virginia Damon, instructor of speech. Choreographer is Dolores Richardson. Bob Jacks will direct and supervise the music.

Black Power and White Ministry Wed. Topic

Rev. Calvin B. Marshall, pastor of the Park Street Zion Church in Peekskill, New York, and articulate spokesman for the Black Power movement, will speak at an extended chapel service, Wed., March 6 at 10 a.m. on Black Power and white ministry. An informal discussion will follow in the Campus Center.

Marshall is Consultant to the Metropolitan Applied Research Center of New York City. In a speech to Dr. M. Richard Shaull's Models of Missionary Theology class earlier this year, Marshall asked the searching question: "How can you love God if you can't love me?"

He charged that "the institutional church is part of the Establishment that has suppressed the Negroes. The Church has ignored poverty, the breakdown of the family, war, and sound education. The Church chooses to be safe and sophisticated. The passage of time has dulled her vision of the cross."

Marshall went on to ask "Does the institution's sickness reflect our own?" Marshall emphasized "the problems won't be solved by sympathy."

The impact of that evening encouraged Student Council to invite Marshall to speak to the entire Seminary community, according to David Myler.

Art Will Reign March 8

Looking high and low for art are Gary Burdge, George Abdo, Ross Warfield, and Larry Carlson of the Art Ark committee.

The Art Ark, sponsored by the Faith and Life Commission of the Student Council will be launched Fri., March 8, at 6:30 p.m. in Stuart Hall.

The Seminary community is invited to express itself with the artistic materials which will be provided. Personal supplies may be brought as well.

Works already finished are requested for display purposes. Such works may include poetry and photography as well as other art work. They should be brought to Gary Burdge in the Stuart Hall basement Fri., March 1, or Mon.-Wed., March 4-6 between 1:30 and 5 p.m. Deadline for submissions is March 6.

Continuous with the "art-in" will be a program of music and poetry and short story reading. Musicians should contact Gary Burdge. Copies of manuscripts to be read are requested as early as possible so that a program of events can be drawn up.

According to Gary Burdge, Joseph Brown, who teaches sculpture at Princeton University, and his wife will be present to give encouragement for Seminary artists.

Talent is not a requirement for participation. All are welcome aboard the Art Ark.

Welcome Vocations Delegates!

Princeton Theological Seminary welcomes delegates for the 10th annual Conference on Church Vocations which begins Fri., March 1.

Approximately 200 men and 50 women are on campus for the three-day conference, featuring three major lectures and a series of discussion groups with professors and special resource personnel. The Conference delegates have been chosen from more than 2,600 nominations from local pastors, church related colleges and universities, campus ministers, and seminary students. Most of the 250 delegates are housed on campus so that they will have the opportunity to share questions and reflections informally with seminarians.

All sessions of the Vocation Conference are open to Seminary students.

Moltmann Speaks Thurs.

Dr. Jurgen Moltmann, Professor of Systematic Theology at Tubingen University, will discuss "Resurrection as Hope" Thurs., March 7 at 7:45 p.m. in the Main Lounge.

Moltmann, who is spending this year in the United States as a visiting professor at Duke University, has taught at Bonn University and Kirchliche Hochschule of Wuppertal. He has written several books in the field of Reformed theology and Calvin studies, including Predestination und Perseranz and Theology of Hope.

Moltmann began his studies while a prisoner of war in England. He continued at Gottingen, receiving his doctorate in 1952. He served 5 years as a pastor before turning to teaching.

Seniors Get Free Speech

David Myler, President of the Student Council, has announced faculty approval of the Student Council program permitting Seniors to deliver homilies in morning Chapel.

Seniors scheduled to conduct Chapel who are interested in delivering a homily should contact Richard Nathan, David Myler, or Dr. Donald Macleod for details.

This is an experimental program and will be reviewed in May.

New Field Education Consultant Named

Dr. Robert R. Ferguson, chaplain for the Assembly of the California State Legislature, and former minister of Fremont Presbyterian Church of Sacramento, California, has been named Consultant in Field Education at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Ferguson, a 1940 graduate of the Seminary, served in the Sacramento pastorate 20 years and the Assembly for five years.

After graduation from the University of California, Ferguson took a year of graduate study at Oxford University. Dr. Ferguson has traveled widely in Europe and the Middle East, and in 1961-62 spent a sabbatical leave in Resident study at the University of Edinburgh and at Princeton Seminary.

Twice president of the Sacramento Association and a former moderator of Sacramento Presbytery, in 1967 he was presented the D. D. Mattocks Award by the Sacramento branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in recognition of his service to the cause of human rights.

4th Vietnam Panel Tues.

The fourth faculty panel on the war in Vietnam will be led by the Department of Practical Theology Tues., March 5 at 7 p.m. in the Main Lounge. Participants include Dean Arthur Adams, professors Donald Macleod, David Jones, Elmer Homrighausen, James Loder, and William Brower. Sponsored by the Church and Society Committee, and Princeton Seminarians Concerned About Vietnam, the discussion will focus on such issues as draft counseling and draft resistance, 4-D exemptions, and the Church's role in dealing with the war.

Field Ed. Announcements

Middlers who have not completed their Field Education interviews should make appointments on the Field Education bulletin board by Feb. 29.

Interviews with pastor-supervisors for fall Field Education placements will begin Mon., March 4. Details will be posted on the Field Education bulletin board.

Pastor-supervisors are now interviewing middlers for internship placements for the 1968-69 academic year. Opportunities include work in urban, suburban, inner city, and rural churches; the campus ministry; clinical training; and denominations boards and agencies. All interested middlers who have not seen Mr. Leksa should make an appointment as soon as possible.

What's Up with the Chapel?

Nine students, including Chapel Deacons and Student Council members, met Mon., March 4, to discuss a proposal to make one chapel service a week the sole responsibility of students.

The proposal originated with Vern McCarty, a Middler, who has been circulating a petition for the change. A copy has been given to President James I. McCord. A summary of the letter:

"Dear Dr. McCord:

We speak to you representing a significant number of students in the Seminary community who wish to see some immediate reform in the present system of morning chapel services.

We are of the conviction that it is possible to worship God meaningfully in ways other than the ways now permitted in the morning chapel services. We would like to see some of the same creativity and imagination which has occasionally been exhibited in the evening chapel programs be allowed to exhibit itself in the morning services.

We request that one of the four weekly chapel services (not the extended service) be made the responsibility of the students in time for them to present one of the four programs in the first week of April.

We request this one day out of four as a day of experimentation. More pervasive change may ultimately evolve out of this small token, so we hope. We believe that many students who do not find meaning in regular chapel services, as well as other students and professors, would find meaning in the kind of service which we are proposing. The students who would control this chapel service will include components from the Chapel Deacons and from the Student Council's Committee on Faith and Life.

We believe that the change requested here would be for the good of the Seminary community as a whole."

The students, Robert Holtby, Vern McCarty, Damon Hickey, Curtis McKee, Stewart Ellis, Howard Happ, Larry Carlson, Andrew Woods and Richard Nathan, agreed that the morning chapel services were not as meaningful as they should be, but differed in their proposals to amend the problem.

Larry Carlson expressed the problem, "students don't know what they want in worship. Most of us are liturgically naïve. We need help from someone on the faculty. This would give us a basis of creativity."

Damon Hickey suggested that a student-faculty committee take responsibility for the overall direction of the morning chapel programs.

Howard Happ expressed discontent over the lack of unity in worship. "I'm upset by a person giving personal expression of his religious feelings and setting them before the community. I'd like to see us use a form that has a little more community basis."

Robert Holtby disagreed. "I can't see having the same structure for four days is necessary to unity. Worship is different things to different people."

The nine thought that putting one chapel program a week under student control was a positive step.

German Theologian Here

Dr. D. Helmut Gollwitzer, Professor of Theology at the Free University in Berlin, will deliver three lectures on "Reconciliation" March 11-13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Lounge.

Mon. he will speak on "Reconciliation as Event"; Tues., "Reconciled Guilt: Theological and Secular Anthropology"; and Wed., "Who is 'God' in the Story of Reconciliation?" The third lecture is sponsored by Koinonia.

Gollwitzer is the author of Unwilling Journey, a diary of reflections on his experiences as a prisoner of war in Russia; The Demands of Freedom, essays on such political and social issues as nuclear armament and Christianity and Communism; and The Existence of God as Confessed by Faith.

Dr. Charles West described Gollwitzer as "one of Germany's foremost radical theologians, deeply engaged in dialogue with Marxism and East-West reconciliation."

Fall Placements Begin

Interviews are now being scheduled with pastor-supervisors. Students interested in fall field education positions should consult the Field Education bulletin board for brief descriptions of job openings.

Detailed job descriptions may be read in the Field Education Office.

Interviews for specific jobs should be arranged with Mrs. Simpson.

Although additional placements will be made in the fall, it is preferable to interview at this time.

Financial Aid—2nd Warning

Currently enrolled students who expect to receive financial assistance next year must make application during the current semester. All arrangements must be completed before May.

Copies of the "Student Financial Inventory" are available in the Office of the Assistant to the President. A new brochure on the program will be out soon.

It will not be possible for continuing students to make application in the fall until all entering students have been interviewed, a process ending in mid-November.

Even though information may be incomplete, applications should be initiated. Rough estimates may be used now, and accurate figures substituted when they become available.

Right Rite to Write

Any student interested in working on student publications next year, or in taking a position of editorship, should contact the current editors: Howard Happ, Viewpoint; Jane McClure, Wineskin or Laird J. Stuart, Dimension.

Seminary Draft Resisters Receive Action

The four students who turned in their draft cards following a service of worship in Miller Chapel on Dec. 4, 1967, have received differing responses from their draft boards. Richard Killmer, Larry Trettin, James Crawford, and Thomas Crenshaw described the results.

Killmer received the most decisive action. "On Dec. 28 I received a letter from my draft board which declared me delinquent for not possessing my draft card. Ten days later I was re-classified 1-A." Killmer then filed form 150, the form for Conscientious Objectors, as a selective conscientious objector because "applying my faith to a particular situation, Vietnam, I found that I could not serve."

Selective conscientious objection is not recognized by the National Selective Service System; Killmer expects to be inducted in June. "I will refuse induction, and my case will be taken to court." The American Civil Liberties Union has agreed to defend his case.

"I hope to set a precedent for a broader interpretation of the draft law, allowing for selective conscientious objection against a particular war," Killmer concluded.

James Crawford has received no response at all to his Dec. 4 action, and Larry Trettin has received only an interview with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Trettin commented, "the fact that four men can do the same act and get four different responses, is a commentary on the autonomy and basic discrimination of draft boards." Trettin was pleased that the action of the four has stimulated discussion. "By raising the issues, it seems that the campus has been forced to deal with them. I've had an increasing number of invitations to speak, and to confront people with making a decision."

Thomas Crenshaw was contacted by the F.B.I. but refused to consult with them, feeling that it would not be in his best interest. "About a month and a half ago I received a routine questionnaire from my draft board. According to this questionnaire I was still classified 4-D. I wrote back saying that I didn't feel I could accept a 4-D classification. I assumed that they had received my draft card. They wrote back saying that they had not received my card and that the questionnaire they had sent was routine policy." Two weeks ago Crenshaw filled

4-D or not 4-D

A discussion of the validity of the 4-D classification for clergymen will be held Mon., March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Lounge. The panel leading the investigation includes Andrew Woods, Dean Arthur Adams, Dr. James Nichols, Floyd Churn, and Stewart Ellis. Their articles in the current issue of Viewpoint will be the springboard for discussion. The Seminary community is urged to read them in advance.

The American Association of Theological Schools has encouraged seminaries to debate the question of 4-D classification on their campuses. If feasible, a report of student opinion will be sent to the A.A.T.S.

Student-Faculty Committee to Study Open Curriculum

A joint faculty-student task force has been formed for the purpose of reviewing the curriculum of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Student members of the task force are Bill Dunifon, a middler, Calvert Brand, a senior, and Wayne Frey, a middler. Faculty members are professors James Nichols, chairman, James Armstrong, secretary, Charles West, Diogenes Allen, Coval MacDonald, and Cullen Story.

According to Dunifon, chairman of the Student Council's Academic Commission, the task force emerged out of a series of meetings in the fall between the Curriculum Committee of the faculty and the Academic Commission. It was approved by the faculty at its last meeting.

The task force will review educational philosophy and the open curriculum that has been in operation at Princeton for two years. The first meeting is March 14. The committee plans to meet once a week. Students are urged to contribute their ideas to any of the student members. A more systematic examination of student viewpoints is also planned. A report with recommendations will be submitted by the end of the spring semester of this year.

To be put into effect, the recommendations must be approved by faculty and trustees.

out the current information questionnaire, crossing out the 4-D classification. He hasn't heard anything since.

Crenshaw explained his actions. "I was tired of sitting around over a cup of coffee and talking about the war. I came to the conclusion that I was as responsible for the war as anyone. I hope that what I have done can be seen from a Christian perspective, as a Christian witness."

Faith Through Movement

A workshop on the use of creative movement as an educational tool will be held Thurs., March 28, at 7:30 in the Campus Center Auditorium.

Mrs. Margaret Fisk Taylor, author of A Time for Wonder, A Time for Discovery, and Look Up and Live, which deal with bodily movement in the expression of faith, will lead the session.

The workshop will be at an introductory level, exploring ways in which children, young people, and adults can learn through movement. The Seminary community and church school teachers of the surrounding area are invited to participate.

Informal dress which allows freedom of movement should be worn. Low heels or sneakers are preferred.

Verily I Say Unto You, What A Great Show!

Next performances: Thurs., Fri., March 21 & 22, 8 p.m.
Campus Center Auditorium

by Dan Pure

One of the most exciting events to take place at Princeton Seminary this year was the staging of the musical "Verily, Verily, Verily/MERRILY." Bob Jacks, Assistant in Speech at the Seminary, has really, really, really created a little gem of a musical along with Jerry Fargo. The production was presented Saturday night, March 2, to an audience that loved every minute of it. . . .

And for good reason: Under the solid direction of Mrs. Virginia Damon, the acting participants turned out a near-professional performance. Chalk up a splendid job of production and you have the ingredients for the kind of memorable entertainment that captivated, delighted and even provocatively disturbed the audience.

Quickly, vvv/M is the story of one Adam Newman who is just embarking on his ministry after leaving seminary. Called by an Angel of God, Diogenes-like bearing the lantern of Truth, Newman is filled with youthful, high idealism as he anticipates his future. More than anything else, he wants to maintain his integrity as a minister. But upon reaching Golgotha Memorial Church, he finds himself compromising his ideals and conforming under the pressures of the Establishment. All his dreams seem to be shattered until—well, I'll stop there. I urge those who did not attend to come and find out what happens to Rev. Newman.

Since this tragi-comedy is a musical, I should first like to comment on the music itself. Bob Jacks has written the score, and I think he has created some excellent numbers. Most noteworthy (admittedly this is pure opinion) are Here Am I, The Circle Round, One Day and Don't Rock the Establishment. At least these were the songs I kept hearing people, including myself, singing and whistling after the show was over. The numbers were played up well, and harpsichord lovers should note that, yes, there is a harpsichord in the instrumental ensemble.

To the performers themselves: Sara Bradley, who played the Wife and Jacqueline Yetter, who played Marylee, gave warmly empathic performances. Wes Michaelson, as the Angel, gave an arresting account as angelic commentator. Special commendation is in order for Shirley Rakacs who gave excellent characterizations throughout the play.

Late in the performance I learned that Clayton Ames had been ill. This was regrettable, for my chief criticism was that Mr. Ames was a passive Super-Preacher. I am not familiar with his singing but I understand that he has an excellent voice. That was not apparent as his voice was edgy and strained at the upper register. Now in Act I, Adam Newman is the center of attention. In Act II, he is a victim of his circumstances. Unless his songs are belted out in the first act, then the nuances of his tragedy are lost in the second act. No matter. His was a good performance and I know that I shall attend vvv M again when his health and voice shall be top-notch.

The male and women choruses outdid themselves. With the fine choreography of Delores Richardson, their song and dance routines were just grand. Yet, I'm still not sure whether I agree with the decision to include a solo dance in the Disciples' Blues number. It tended to detract from the image of loneliness and despair of the singers.

Much more could be praised, like the effective costumes of the women made by Cheryl Dunn and Betsy Conlon. I'll simply offer my warmest praise to the entire company which has risen to the occasion with a sympathetic and enthusiastic response to Mrs. Damon's direction.

Varsity Triumphs Over Drew

by Tom Crenshaw

The Princeton Seminary Varsity turned in their best game of the campaign by reaching the century mark in defeating Drew Seminary 100-77. The victory was the Varsity's second over Drew and their fifth victory in a row after an initial defeat at the hands of St. Joseph's Seminary.

Gayland Yoder paced the winners with 23 points.

Brown captured the intramural league playoffs by defeating the Sr. Grads 39-34 while the Jr. Middlers came from behind to defeat Alexander 54-53, in overtime for the consolation victory.

Bill Kokie sunk a twelve-footer with only seconds remaining to send the Jr. Middlers into overtime with Alexander.

In the four-minute overtime the Jr. Middlers outscored Alexander 9-8 and walked off with the victory. Bill Owens of the losers paced all scorers with 25 points while Jim Long tossed in 14 for the victors.

In the championship game Brown got off to a slow start and midway through the first half it looked as if the Sr. Grads would make a runaway of the game. Brown, however, came back behind the fine shooting of Bob McArthur and the rebounding of Mark Rohloff Rohloff and Dexter McNamara played brilliantly under the boards to help offset the decided height advantage of the Sr. Grads.

Art Ware led the losers with 12 while George Smith, who played another outstanding floor game, dropped in 11.

Bob McArthur led the victors with 15 while Mark Rohloff poured in 12.

Thanks for the Conference

Assistant to the President James Andrews and Donald Broadwell, student director of the 1968 Conference on Church Vocations described the conference as "one of the most successful." More than 200 college men and women attended.

Broadwell gives special thanks for the assistance and cooperation rendered by students in staff work, conference leadership, and hospitality.

Philadelphia Minister Named Seminary Development Officer

Richard S. Armstrong, minister of the Oak Lane Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, will become Director of Development at Princeton Theological Seminary on June 1.

Armstrong, a member of the Seminary's class of 1958 and an honors graduate of Princeton University, was public relations director for the Baltimore Orioles and Philadelphia Athletics baseball clubs before beginning his education for the ministry.

President McCord said the new development director would assume responsibility for the Seminary's development and public relations programs.

Minister at Oak Lane Presbyterian Church since his graduation from Princeton Seminary in 1958, Armstrong was vice-moderator of Philadelphia Presbytery in 1962 and is currently a member of that Presbytery's committees on Oversight and Public Relations as well as its Board of Trustees. He also serves as treasurer and a member of the Board of Directors of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Commission on Evangelism of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches.

As a Princeton Seminary undergraduate, Armstrong was president of the student body, winner of the Grier Prize in Speech and Homiletics, and served as assistant to the vice-president with responsibilities in the development and public relations programs.

At Princeton University, where he earned honors in economics upon graduation, Armstrong was the winner of the Maryland Regional Scholarship, a varsity letterman in baseball and basketball, secretary of the Undergraduate Council, member and business manager of the Princeton Nassoons and a member of both the Triangle Club and the Cottage Club.

Gallahue Conference Brings Davis, Robinson, Moltmann, and Mary Corita

"Next Steps for Church and Theology" will be discussed at the Edward F. Gallahue Theology Today conference April 17-21 by specialists in the fields of theology, the humanities and the social sciences.

Daytime sessions for the participants will be held at Princeton Inn. Public events will be held on the Seminary campus.

The Gallahue Conferences are basically academic sessions avowedly hospitable to every shade of religious and philosophical persuasion, and to the free exercise of personal faith under the dictates of conscience and reason.

Edward F. Gallahue, a retired insurance company executive, has sponsored the Edward Gallahue Conferences on Theology and Psychiatry at the Menninger Foundation and Princeton Theological Seminary and the Edward F. Gallahue World Religions Conferences at Princeton Theological Seminary.

The last conference, May 1966, considered "Religious Pluralism and World Community." Another Gallahue conference at Princeton considered "The Phenomenon of Convergence and the Course of Prejudice."

The conference papers will be published at a later date.

Edward F. Gallahue has been granted honorary degrees from Boston University, Earlham College, and DePauw University. He has served as president of the American States Insurance Co. and the American Economy Insurance Company. He has been a trustee and director of educational and medical groups. 1950-1961 he was president of the Indianapolis Hospital Development Association and president of the Indiana Association of Mental Health 1948-1950.

Students Present Ideas to Curriculum Review Committee

The student members of the Joint Curriculum Review Task-Force stressed the need for students not only to have a familiarity with the disciplines relating to the Christian life and ministry, but also to be engaged in a process of personal growth and development which would enable them to use these disciplines creatively in different contexts.

Cal Brand, Wayne Frey, and Bill Dunifon, in a synopsis to the review committee on the "Goals of the Bachelor of Divinity Program at Princeton Theological Seminary" said, "The average student comes to Seminary on the basis of some self-understanding which includes some relationship to the Christian faith, which he hopes to further refine and develop. He is also looking for methods and disciplines through which he can relate himself to the various communities with which he is concerned."

The three students explained, however, that we "find ourselves torn between the need to reach out to others and become involved in the life and world around us on the one hand and a desire to retreat to the security of some form of isolation on the other."

Brand, Frey, and Dunifon set forth for the Seminary the goal of developing persons who can creatively interpret the Christian faith in the context contemporary and changing human situation.

The task force was initiated to review educational philosophy and the open curriculum currently in operation at Princeton Seminary. Faculty members of the committee include professors James Nichols, chairman; James Armstrong, secretary; Charles West; Diogenes Allen; Coval MacDonald; and Cullen Story.

Specific suggestions made by student members included interdisciplinary teaching and dialogue, and more emphasis on counseling and small group seminars.

The paper by the students is currently under discussion by the task-force.

Dunifon stressed that the student members are concerned not only to present their own viewpoints but to represent fairly the positions of all students concerned about curricular changes at the Seminary. Students are urged to contribute their ideas by personally contacting the student members or by attending open meetings.

Easter Vacation begins
10:00 a.m. "The Agony of Christ," a sight-sound meditation, Randall Nichols

Student Writes Play

"Mrs. Brenwalter's Indiscretion," a play written by John Burgess, a junior at Princeton University, will be performed by McCarter Theatre Fri., April 5, following "The Marriage of Figaro."

Burgess, a math major, wrote the play in William McCleery's Playwriting Workshop at Princeton University. This is his first attempt.

He described the play at a compilation of Ambrose Bierce's works. Burgess expressed hope that the play would attract attention to Bierce's works.

Admission is free and open to the public.

Easter Reading

During Easter recess the library will be open for the following hours:

Fri., April 5	8-5 p.m.
Sat., April 6	9-12 p.m.
April 8-11	9-5 p.m.
April 12, 13	Closed.

McCarter Springs

"The Marriage of Figaro," playing at McCarter Theatre March 30 and April 5, is a delightful way to welcome Spring.

The comedy by the eighteenth century French playwright Beaumarchais lacks none of the French tendency to wit and frankness.

The plot revolves around Figaro's anxiety to have his bride Suzanne before the lord of the manor, Count Almaviva, exercises his rights over her.

Figaro develops a counterplot, making the Count believe that his own wife is being sought after. Moves and countermoves develop the complexity and comedy.

James Tripp makes a charming Figaro. Susan Kaslow plays Suzanne. She is portrayed in feminine spunk and frailty. Her character is too typical to be memorable. Jane Cronin is a very sympathetic Countess. All in all, "The Marriage of Figaro" is a good Spring rite.

Peace Service Wed.

A service of worship for peace and brotherhood will be held Wed., April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Princeton University Chapel.

Monsignor Paul Furfey of the Catholic University, Washington, D.C., will deliver the address.

Also participating in the service will be Rabbi Everett Gendler, Rev. Carl Reimers, Rev. Ambrose Schaeffer, and Rev. Harold Thomas.

Theologians Seek New Trends

Mary Corita

Fifty-five of the leading theologians of the United States and Europe will be on the campus of Princeton Theological Seminary April 17-21 to discuss the current direction of Christian thought.

Titled "The Edward F. Gallahue-Theology Today Conference on 'Next Steps for Church and Theology,'" the meeting will be chaired by the Reverend Dr. James I. McCord, President of Princeton Theological Seminary. The Reverend Dr. H.T. Kerr, editor of the quarterly journal Theology Today and Professor of Theology at Princeton Seminary, is the conference director.

The "emphasis throughout the Conference," Kerr said, "will be creative and forward-looking. The overriding question will be 'Where do we go from here?'"

In addition to the five major papers to be presented in the closed sessions of the conference, there will be several public events on the schedule. Dr. Charles Davis, former English Roman Catholic now teaching at the University of Alberta, and Bishop John A.T. Robinson of Woolwich, author of Honest To God, will deliver public lectures Wed., April 17, at 5 and 8:30 p.m., respectively.

Thurs., April 18, Professor Jurgen Moltmann of the University of Tübingen, whose book The Theology of Hope represents one of theology's newest movements, will give a public address on "The Future as Paradigm of Transcendence."

Sister Mary Corita Kent, known for her demonstrations of pop art as a communications medium, will present an exhibit-discussion at 8:30 p.m., Sat., April 20.

The public presentation for Fri., April 19, will be a panel discussion between students and representative theologians taking part in the conference. The Pasolini film "The Gospel According to St. Matthew" will be screened following the discussion.

The evening public meetings will all be held on the campus of Princeton Theological Seminary. Closed sessions of the Conference are to meet at the Princeton Inn.

The four-day program will focus on five position papers and an inter-disciplinary panel critique of each paper. The papers will be presented by: Dr. Albert C. Outler, Professor of Historical Theology in the Perkins Schools of Theology at Southern Methodist University; Dr. Harvey Cox, Professor of Church and Society at the Divinity School of Harvard University; Dr. Charles C. West, Professor of Christian Ethics at Princeton Theological Seminary; The Reverend Stephen C. Rose, Editor of "Renewal" magazine; and Dr. Daniel Callahan, Executive Editor of "Commonweal" and noted Roman Catholic author.

New Officers Sought

New student body officers will be elected on Tues., April 30, according to Dave Myler, Student Council President. In addition, the student body will vote on a new constitution which makes major changes in the present student government structures.

Information regarding the proposed constitution will be made available by the committee for constitutional revision, headed by Winton Smith.

Under current election proceedings, the Student Council nominates two individuals for the offices of President, Vice-President and Treasurer.

Further nominations may be made at the student body meeting which will be held Wed., April 24, at 1:45 p.m. in the Main Lounge.

Those who have suggestions for nominations or who would like to be nominated for an office should contact Dave Myler or other Council members immediately.

Election of class officers will be held at the discretion of present officers.

If the proposed constitution is ratified, the Council to be elected will serve only until February, 1969, since the proposed Constitution places student government on a February to February basis. The proposed constitution would become operative February, 1969.

General Assembly Moderator Speaks Monday

The Reverend Mr. Eugene Smathers, minister of a 75-member rural parish in Tennessee who was elected to the highest office of the United Presbyterian Church last year, will speak to students and faculty Mon. at 1:45 p.m., in the Main Lounge.

Smathers, who went directly from Louisville Theological Seminary to the pastorate of the Calvary Presbyterian Church of Big Lick, Tennessee, had served the 75-member congregation for 35 years when he was elected Moderator of the 179th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church last May in Portland, Oregon.

His election was a surprise victory for the son of a tenant farmer from Kentucky. Smathers attended Transylvania College before going to Louisville Seminary, and received his B.D. degree in 1932. He was honored by Centre College in 1949 with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Smathers had become widely known for the extensive social concerns exhibited in his rural ministry. The establishment of a health center took priority over the building of a church structure in the early days of his pastorate. A farm machinery cooperative, a program to enable young families to acquire homes, and emphasis upon regional economic planning are landmarks of his ministry.

Inter-racial work in the South was an early emphasis of Moderator Smathers' ministry. He was a charter member of the Fellowship of Southern Churchmen, and helped organize inter-racial and inter-faith work on campus as early as 1940. He traveled to virtually every Southern state to organize and teach in schools for Negro sharecropper ministers as part of a Board of National Missions program to bring additional educational opportunities to such clergymen.

The office of Moderator is the highest elected post in the United Presbyterian Church. A Moderator is elected each year to preside at the General Assembly. He then serves during the following year as chairman of the General Council of the denomination, and continues as a member of the Council for two additional years.

Campus Jobs Available

Applications are now being received for major campus jobs for the 1968-69 academic year. These positions involve responsibility for the program or the supervision of other student staff, and in some cases the administration of budgets.

Students interested in these positions should make application in letter form, addressed to Mr. James E. Andrews or Mr. William L. Lawder. Prospective applicants should seek a conference with the person currently holding the position in order to become familiar with the responsibilities. The letter of application should indicate a knowledge of the job, experience in the field, and any suggestions for changes or improvement.

Appointments to be made include:

Assistant Head Waiter (two vacancies)
Director of Student Publications and Editor of Dimension
Editor of Viewpoint
Editor of WINESKIN
Student Athletic Director
Campus Security Officer.

Beginning with the next academic year the appointment of a head waiter will be made at mid-year. Applications for the head waiter's position will be announced during the fall semester. Applications for the vacancies listed above should be submitted beginning April 19.

Mary Corita Talks Art, Religion, and Education . . .

"If you find people worshipping outside the Church, why divide them from those inside the Church?"

"There is a surge of religious feeling all over" Sister Mary Corita Kent told The Wineskin in an interview during the recent Edward F. Gallahue Theology Today conference at which she was a participant.

Sister Corita, who captures this feeling in her lively seriograph prints, heads the art department at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles.

Asked how she should be addressed, Mary Corita answered, "Oh it doesn't matter, just be nice to me."

Sister Corita, who produced an audio-visual art happening on the Seminary campus April 20, said she enjoys making seriographs because "when you do prints, you have lots."

Seriographs involve a process similar to silk screening.

She described the process of art as changeless. "The process of art is always the same: the process of producing new things. Only the forms change."

Corita, who has taken a change of dress as well as a change in art form, wore a dress of wide purple and gray stripes to the conference.

"My Protestant friends felt very bad about my loss of habit because, they said, it was one marvellous, solid, unchanging thing. It sounded like they wanted their religion unchanging on someone else."

Speaking of her order which involves about 500 nuns, Sister Corita emphasized, "We are first human beings and we want to respond as such with imagination.

"The institutional Church," she went on to say, "can commit suicide by making it difficult for people within it to move."

Sister Corita sees great possibilities for the use of television and other mass

Task-Oriented Education Sought

A program of task-oriented education called "The Center for Vital Education and Cultural Change" is projected for September by an ad hoc group of 13 students and two faculty members.

An organizational meeting will be held for interested persons Mon., April 29 at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center.

According to George Taylor of the steering committee, "The center will be an independent, self-supporting group open to the entire community of Princeton. It will offer facilities, resource people, and coordinators for small in-depth study groups."

Groups of five or 10 will organize themselves around a common interest or task. The purpose is to engage individuals in a dynamic, learning process, which will have the by-product of helping them to grow as persons.

Suggested topics of interest include art and social change, experimental worship, and practical action politics, but students are urged to initiate their own tasks and interests.

Also on the steering committee are: Thomas Baker, Dr. J. Christiaan Beker, William Carr, Paul Derrickson, Louis Favors, Wayne Holcomb, David Jones, Marc Minardi, Carol Moseley, David Myler, Stanley Kessler, David Roadhouse, John Roadhouse, and Dr. M. Richard Shaull.

The group began the Center because "There is a need to structure an experience of education that involves the whole person and which might serve as a flexible model for what the educational process could be for each one of us throughout our lifetimes."

Book for Scherer

Living Without God Before God, a book dedicated to Dr. Paul Scherer by its author David O. Woodyard, is now available in the Theological Book Agency. Published by Westminister Press, the book is a collection of essays dealing with Christianity today.

Job Applications Due

Students wishing to apply for major campus jobs for the 1968-69 academic year should apply in letter form to James E. Andrews or William L. Lawder.

Appointments to be made include two Assistant Head Waiters, Director of Student Publications and Editor of Dimension, editor of Viewpoint, editor of The Wineskin, Student Athletic Director, and Campus Security Officer.

Prospective applicants should seek a conference with the person currently holding the position in order to become familiar with the responsibilities. The letter of application should include a knowledge of the job, experience in the field, and any suggestions for changes or improvements.

Applications should be turned in immediately.

"Next Steps" Include Stepping into Other Fields

Dr. Hugh Kerr summarized the Edward F. Gallahue Theology Today Conference held at Princeton April 17-21 by asking the question, "How do our discussions illustrate the theological gap?"

Topics of the conference on "Next Steps for Church and Theology" ranged from iconoclasm to community, and from religious experience to cosmic purpose.

Kerr, director of the conference, told the participants in closing remarks, "We have a problem today deciding what to talk about. We have a problem about the problem. We are less sure about the traditional limitations of theology."

The some 50 participants included representatives from the field of sociology, psychology, art, and literature, as well as from theology.

Kerr noted that we are more eager today to search in other disciplines for insights and information. "In spite of theology's almost exclusive dependence on the Word, many of us are uneasy about this. It threatens the old verbal monopoly, but suggests that windows and doors may be opening up."

Kerr concluded that "the dimension of the person may provide the most promising clue for the future assignment of theology."

Conference sessions closed to the public consisted in the distribution of position papers which were answered formally by two critics. After formal criticism, discussion was open to participants. Five papers were discussed in this way.

Authors Albert Outler, Harvey Cox, Charles West, Stephen Rose, and Daniel Callahan will have the opportunity to revise and finalize their positions before their printing in Theology Today.

media in education. "Through films you get a sense you'd never get through weeks and weeks of lectures."

Corita expressed hope that the educational process would become centered in the home. "Educational centers, if they exist, should be for parents, teaching them to teach their own children." The same would hold true for Christian education. "Sunday schools could be laboratories in which parents and children enrich each other."

To the protest that such a program would not work in a society with so many broken homes, Mary Corita answered, "the normal functions of the home having been taken away may be part of why they're broken."

Asked how she enjoyed the conference, Corita answered, "I enjoy words in the poetic sense more than in the analytic sense."

Th.M. Candidate Dies

Th.M. candidate Frederick Robert Gibson, age 46, died at Cedar Grove, New Jersey, on March 8, 1968. A graduate of McMaster University in Ontario, he received his theological training at Emmanuel College in Toronto. His wife pre-deceased him by five years. He is survived by a son, Glenn, and a daughter, Lindsay. Prior to ministering at the United Presbyterian Church of Cedar Grove, he served parishes in Easton and Bangor, Pennsylvania, and in Asbury Park, New Jersey. He had completed all requirements for the Th.M. degree at the end of the first semester. The degree will be awarded posthumously on June 4.

Syrian Orthodox to Speak in Miller Chapel May 8

The Rev. T. Paul Verghese, Associate General Secretary of the World Council of Churches, and bishop-elect of the Syrian Orthodox Church, will speak Wed., May 8 at 9 a.m. in Miller Chapel.

A 1954 graduate of Princeton Seminary, Father Verghese served as private secretary to His Imperial Majesty Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, 1956-59.

He was born in 1922 of Christian parents in Tripunithura, Kerala, India. After graduation from high school he worked five years as a reporter for the Malayan daily newspaper Malabar Mail.

In 1947 he went to Ethiopia to teach English and mathematics in government schools. His fluency in the Amharic language won him the attention of the Emperor who invited him to become senior Amharic teacher in the Haile Selassie I Secondary School.

After studying at Goshen College, Indiana, he received a B.D. from Princeton. He also holds an S.T.M. from Yale Divinity School.

Verghese has done extensive work for the Orthodox Student Christian Movement in India. At present he serves as director of the Division of Ecumenical Action for the World Council of Churches.

Coffin and Hines to Speak at 156th Commencement

The Rev. William S. Coffin, Jr., chaplain of Yale University, and the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States, will speak at Princeton's 156th annual commencement exercises.

Coffin will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon, Sun., June 2 at 4 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton. Hines will deliver the commencement address, Tues., June 4 at 10:30 a.m. in Princeton University Chapel.

Hines is the youngest man ever to assume duties of the Presiding Bishop. After 20 years as Bishop of Texas, he was elected to the Episcopal Church's highest post in Oct. 1964. He received his A.B. from the University of the South, and his B.D. from Virginia Theological Seminary. He was awarded doctorates of Sacred Theology from General Theological Seminary, Trinity College, and Seabury-Western Theological Seminary.

Coffin, University Chaplain, and minister of the Church of Christ at Yale University since 1958 is known for his political action and social concern.

He is a member of the boards of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, "Crossroads Africa," and the Freedom of Residence Fund. He is also a member of the President's Advisory Committee on Civil Rights for the State of Connecticut. In 1961 he organized and became the first Director of the Peace Corps' Field Training Center in Puerto Rico.

Coffin holds an A.B. from Yale University and a B.D. from Yale Divinity School. In 1966 he was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity from Wesleyan University.

In 1962 Life magazine named him one of the 100 "under forty" Americans outstanding in the "take-over generation."

SC Begins Stewardship Drive

An open Student Council meeting will be held Tues., May 7 at 7 p.m. in the Student Council room for the purpose of selecting a recipient of the Princeton Theological Seminary Stewardship Project for 1968. The Council has three proposals for consideration. Students interested in bringing further proposals are invited to attend this meeting. Proposals should be clear, and contain as much information as possible about the organization, fund, or group to which the money will be donated.

The Council will initiate the project with money left from the 1967-1968 budget. In addition, students will be asked to contribute to the project. The Council expressed hope that a project would be selected which would have wide appeal on campus, and that such a project would be an important part of the social service mission of the student body.
